

The best preparation for living fully and well is to be prepared to die at any time, because impending death inspires clarity of purpose, a homing in on what really matters to you.

Morrie Schwartz, Morrie: In His Own Words

In response to the words of Morrie, write an English composition of about 250-350 words in length on the following topic:

Imagine that you had only one day left to live, what would you do to pass the last twenty-four hours of your life? Talk about at least three things you want to do and state clearly the reasons for your decision. In your conclusion, discuss what we can learn about living from dying. (100%)

Note: Be sure to write a title in its proper format for your composition and divide your essay into no less than five paragraphs. Remember to use specific details and concrete examples where appropriate.
