Introduction

Citation-引文(註)

According to traditional Chinese medicine, the pericardial meridian is associated with the pain or fullness in the chest, palpitations, depression, restlessness, manic or depressive disorders, nausea or vomiting, hiccups, gastric pain, and distension in the upper abdomen (Bai and Baron, 2001). Since the parasympathetic modulation of both heart and gut is largely mediated by the vagus nerve, and since vagal stimulation of the gut can result in increased peristalsis while the vagal stimulation of the heart can result in decreased heart rate (Guyton and Hall, 1996), it is speculated that to some extent the pericardium meridian might be associated with the autonomic nervous modulation of the subject.

Acupuncture or acupressure at the Neiguan (P6) point, the most frequently used acupoint in the pericardium meridian, has been shown to lessen nausea and vomiting (Dundee et al., 1987, 1988, 1989a and b; Ho et al., 1989; De Aloysio and Penacchioni, 1992; Belluomini et al., 1994; Fan et al., 1997; Harmon et al., 2000). Because nausea and vomiting are also related to autonomic nervous activity (Morrow et al., 1989), it has been speculated that the autonomic nervous activity might be changed when acupuncture at the P6 point was performed.

Heart rate variability analysis is a useful non-invasive method for the assessment of autonomic nervous modulation of heart rate. Some studies have shown that vagal modulation, and the restoration of vagal modulation is associated with the improvement

doi:10.1038/nature20584

Supplementary table 1 | Equations describing the ‘Likely water’ cluster hull and cluster overlaps in the multidimensional feature-space.

These equations describe the ‘Likely water’ cluster in the multidimensional feature-space. By definition, part of this cluster contain pixels that are not water, and request additional processing steps to be properly assigned. The method section provides details about the usages of this equations within the expert system classifier.

摘要

Background. In atopic asthma, activated T helper lymphocytes are present in bronchial-biopsy specimens and bronchoalveolar-lavage (BAL) fluid, and their production of cytokines may be important in the pathogenesis of this disorder. Different patterns of cytokine release are characteristic of certain subgroups of T helper cells, termed T(H1) and T(H2), the former mediating delayed-type hypersensitivity and the latter mediating IgE synthesis and eosinophilia. The pattern of cytokine production in atopic asthma is unknown.

Methods. We assessed cells obtained by BAL in subjects with mild atopic asthma and in normal control subjects for the expression of messenger RNA (mRNA) for interleukin-2, 3, 4, and 5, granulocyte-macrophage colony-stimulating factor (GM-CSF), and interferon gamma by in situ hybridization with P-32-labeled complementary RNA. Localization of mRNA to BAL T cells was assessed by simultaneous in situ hybridization and immunofluorescence and by in situ hybridization after immunomagnetic enrichment or depletion of T cells.

Abstract: Chronic allergic inflammatory diseases are a major cause of morbidity, allergies alone affecting over 300 million people worldwide. Epidemiological studies demonstrate that environmental stimuli are associated with either promotion or prevention of disease. Major reductions in asthma prevalence are documented in European and US farming communities. Protection is associated with exposure of mothers during pregnancy to microbial breakdown products present in farm dusts and unprocessed foods, and enhancement of innate immune competence in the children. We sought to develop a scientific rationale for progressing these findings towards clinical application for primary disease prevention. Treatment of pregnant mice with a defined clinically-approved immune-modulator was shown to markedly reduce susceptibility of their offspring to development of the hallmark clinical features of allergic airway inflammatory disease. Mechanistically, Little is known about PM1 effects on respiratory health, relative to larger size fractions (PM2.5). To address this literature gap, we assessed associations between PM1 exposure and asthmatic symptoms in Chinese children and adolescents, compared with PM2.5 (Strotz, 1956; Teesalu, Airaksinen, Tuulonen, Nieminen, & Alanko, 1997).

METHODS: A total of 59,754 children, aged 2-17years, were recruited from 94 kindergartens, elementary and middle schools in the Seven Northeast Cities (SNEC) study, during 2012-2013.

Little is known about PM1 effects on respiratory health. To address this literature gap, we assessed associations between PM1 exposure and asthmatic symptoms in Chinese children and adolescents, compared with PM2.5<sup>1,2</sup>.

METHODS: A total of 59,754 children, aged 2-17 years, were recruited from 94 kindergartens, “Birdbrain” should be a compliment(Binfield, 2008).

Pioneers in avian intelligence have found that although birds’ brains are very small, they are incredibly intelligent, and sometimes have surprising similarities to the behavior or brain functions of humans. Examples range from the cockatoo who was the first animal documented to dance to a beat to Irene Pepperberg’s in-depth studies done with the African grey parrot Alex (named for Avian Learning EXperiment).(Laudato, 2010; Pepperberg, 1999) There have even been studies documenting that some birds successfully use, and even modify or build, tools.(Bird & Emery, 2009; Holzhaider et al., 2011; von Bayern, Heathcote, Rutz, & Kacelnik, 2009).

Background Data for trends in prevalence of asthma, allergic rhinoconjunctivitis, and eczema over time are scarce. We repeated the International Study of Asthma and Allergies in Childhood (ISAAC) at least 5 years after Phase One, to examine changes in the prevalence of symptoms of these disorders.(Asher et al., 1995; Asher et al., 2006).

Findings Phase Three was completed a mean of 7 years after Phase One. Most centres showed a change in prevalence of 1 or more SE for at least one disorder, with increases being twice as common as decreases, and increases being more common in the 6-7 year age-group than in the 13-14 year age-group, and at most levels of mean prevalence(Bousquet et al., 2008; Constantine, Bressler, Petroni, Metcalfe, & Carter, 2018; Guenter et al., 2018).

A stack of seven books with various colored spines (white, red, yellow, blue, purple, white, red) is placed on a light-colored desk. A silver laptop is open next to the books, leaning against them. The background is a bright, out-of-focus window with vertical bars, suggesting a modern office or library setting.

Thank you!
