Watermark

The screenshot shows a watermarking application window. At the top, it says "Add Watermark". The "Source" section has "Text" selected and a text input field. Below that, "File" is selected and a file named "watermark.pdf" is chosen. A red box highlights the "Absolute Scale: 50%" dropdown. The "Appearance" section shows "Opacity: 50%" and a red box highlights the "Location: Appear behind page" radio button. The "Position" section shows "Vertical Distance: 2.5 Centimeters from Top" and "Horizontal Distance: 2.5 Centimeters from Right", both with red boxes around them. A red arrow points to the "Location" section with the text "deselect this option→". The "Preview" window shows the watermark "水印" (Watermark) in the top right corner of the document. The document content includes the university's name, department, and thesis details. At the bottom, it says "June 2023" and "doi:10.6342/NTU202412345".
